CooperSurgical Announces Winners the 2010 SpotLight Awards Program Honoring Ob/Gyns for Their Contributions to Surgical Education

Four Clinicians Have Received Recognition for Their Part in Developing Video Documentation of Surgical Techniques for Physician Education

TRUMBULL, CONN., November 5, 2010 -- CooperSurgical today announced the winners of the 2010 SpotLight Awards program, which is designed to honor Ob/Gyns for advancing surgical education among their peers. The program provides an opportunity for surgeons to share their best practices while helping other clinicians perfect their techniques.

Participating surgeons submitted a video during which they used the RUMI® uterine manipulation system, a CooperSurgical product, during a procedure. Four videos were selected by an independent judging panel to receive the awards this year.

Criteria used in the judging process were based on surgical technique and educational value. The winning physicians and the procedures they performed follow:

- Richard H. Demir, MD                      SELS: Laparoscopic Myomectomy
- Larry R. Glazerman, MD, FACOG      A Simplified Technique for Total Laparoscopic Hysterectomy
- Navid A. Jafri, MD                        Total Laparoscopic Hysterectomy with the RUMI Arch® and KOH System
- Jessica Shepherd, MD                    RUMI® Uterine Manipulator

Winners were presented with the SpotLight Award and received $2,000 for their work.

Winning videos will be posted on the CooperSurgical YouTube Channel

(www.YouTube.com/coopersurgical) and will also be accessible through the SpotLight

Awards page at www.coopersurgical.com/spotlight.

“We were delighted with the continued positive response from the medical community for the SpotLight Awards program,” says Cheryl Bogardus, Vice-President of Marketing at CooperSurgical. “The strong participation we received demonstrates the passion and dedication of the physicians to improving health care for women. We look forward to even greater participation during the 2011 program as more surgeons see the value of the program. The more quality content we can provide on our YouTube Channel, the greater our service to the medical community.”

The purpose of hosting the SpotLight Awards program is to develop a readily accessible central video reference library of common gynecologic surgical procedures, performed using standards of good medical practice. Each call for entries focuses on a different set of medical procedures using CooperSurgical products.

CooperSurgical, Inc., is a wholly owned subsidiary of The Cooper Companies (NYSE:COO). The company, headquartered in Trumbull, CT, produces and markets a wide array of products for use by women’s health care clinicians.
