COOPERSURGICAL ACQUIRES THE PIPETTE COMPANY

Leading Micro Pipette manufacturer to be folded into CooperSurgical's Assisted Reproductive Technology (ART) company ORIGIO

TRUMBULL, Conn., February 9, 2016 – CooperSurgical, a leading provider of women's health care solutions, has acquired The Pipette Company (TPC) of Adelaide, Australia. A foremost manufacturer and distributor of micro pipettes for the ART market, TPC's line of high quality products developed specifically for micromanipulation and IVF applications will be integrated into CooperSurgical's world leading ART company ORIGIO. With TPC's product lineup, ORIGIO will enhance its already strong pipette offering improving its position to meet the needs of customers within the ART segment.

"The Pipette Company's innovative line of micro pipettes is a perfect fit with our ORIGIO (Humagen) pipette offering enhancing ORIGIO's mission to provide world-class solutions for ART professionals" said Paul Rimmell, President and CEO of CooperSurgical.

"Providing customers with the highest quality micromanipulation products they require is the catalyst for enhancing our ART portfolio" added Rimmell.
