

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Contact:

Marie-Louise Haxthausen

Vice President, Global Marketing

mlhaxthausen@origio.com

COOPERSURGICAL ACQUIRES K-SYSTEMS KIVEX BIOTEC A/S

TRUMBULL, Conn., May 4, 2016 – CooperSurgical, a leading provider of women’s health care solutions has acquired K-Systems Kivex Biotec A/S, a market leader in developing, manufacturing and distribution of innovative and expertly designed equipment to IVF Clinics. The acquisition provides CooperSurgical with all commercial rights to K-Systems product portfolio, sales pipeline, facilities, and technological development processes. K-Systems, which is based in Denmark, entered the IVF market 30 years ago, and is one of the pioneers of equipment designed for human IVF. K-Systems will be integrated into CooperSurgical’s world leading ART company ORIGIO.

“K-Systems is a good fit with our ORIGIO equipment offering,” said Paul Remmell, President and CEO of CooperSurgical. “We get a number of high-quality products that complement ORIGIO’s existing product portfolio. Also, we welcome a talented group of staff who are very good at developing and producing innovative equipment that supports work processes in the IVF lab,” added Remmell.

About CooperSurgical

Since our founding in 1990, CooperSurgical has researched, developed and manufactured a wide range of trusted brands that have advanced the standard of care for families. Our diversified portfolio of products and services focuses on women’s health, fertility, and diagnostics.

CooperSurgical Inc. is a wholly owned subsidiary of The Cooper Companies (NYSE: COO). The company, headquartered in Trumbull, CT produces and markets a wide array of products for use by women’s health care clinicians. More information can be found at www.coopersurgical.com.